                    RESPONDENT	)

CONSENT ORDER OF SUSPENSION

The Alabama Securities Commission ("Commission"), having the authority to administer and provide for the enforcement of all provisions of Title 8, Chapter 6, Code of Alabama 1975, the Alabama Securities Act ("Act"), upon due consideration of the subject matter hereof, and having confirmed information of the offers for sale and/or sale of securities, into, within or from the state of Alabama, has determined as follows:

RESPONDENT

1. During all times relevant to the transactions referenced in this order, DAVID EDWARD LIVINGSTON ("LIVINGSTON"), central registration depository number 2035043, was registered in Alabama as an investment advisor representative and a broker-dealer agent with Proequities, Inc. ("Proequities"). LIVINGSTON has a residential address of 415 Yorkshire Drive, Birmingham, Alabama, 35209.

STATEMENT OF FACTS

2. The Commission received information from the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") alleging that between October 15, 2008, and January 29, 2011, LIVINGSTON executed Alabama resident client signatures to Proequities, Incorporated account document forms without the knowledge and consent of the clients.

3. The investigation revealed that between the above identified dates, LIVINGSTON, without written authority and/or permission, forged the signatures of no less than thirteen (13) clients' to documents whose accounts were held by ProEquities.

The forging of the client signatures allowed unauthorized trading in the client accounts by LIVINGSTON.

4. At the request of the Commission, FINRA provided the written statement of LIVINGSTON dated June 8, 2011. In that statement LIVINGSTON admitted to signing clients' names to "Switch Letters" and/or "Mutual Fund Investor Acknowledgement Forms" for twelve of his clients. LIVINGSTON said he signed the clients' names without client authorization because he had fallen behind in obtaining the necessary signed documents.

5. On August 15, 2011, representatives of FINRA deposed LIVINGSTON. Subsequent to the deposition, FINRA provided the Commission with a copy of the transcript. During the deposition LIVINGSTON admitted forging the signatures of the clients identified in paragraph number three (3) without their prior permission and/or authority. In addition, LIVINGSTON admitted his failure to freeze the account of the deceased client and confirmed trading activity occurred within the account after LIVINGSTON was aware of the client's death.

6. Responding to findings of its compliance personnel, ProEquities discharged LIVINGSTON on March 7, 2011 citing, "The representative acknowledged signing client's signatures to various customer account forms; representative also transacted business for approximately 10 months in a deceased client's account after having knowledge of death; and rep provided misleading information to the firm during investigation of deceased's accounts".

7. On June 20, 2012, LIVINGSTON, represented by counsel, met with the Commission staff and set forth the circumstances giving rise to the FINRA action and LIVINGSTON'S subsequent termination from ProEquities. LIVINGSTON admitted to the misconduct relating to the unauthorized execution of client signatures and provided documentation showing that, while a breach of ethical conduct, such actions did not unduly prejudice or adversely affect the client's in question. LIVINGSTON provided information to the Commission staff which indicates that the transactions for which

LIVINGSTON effected the unauthorized execution of client signatures were not detrimental to the interests of the clients and were done to reduce client expense following a ProEquities review of LIVINGSTON client files.

8. By letter dated July 5, 2012, LIVINGSTON'S counsel set forth proposed conditions for settlement of this action. In such proposal LIVINGSTON agreed to a suspension of eight months and heightened supervisory standards upon return to the securities industry.
